Love your doggies? Come and learn about their ancestors!

Welcome Jessica Decker from the California Wolf Center in beautiful Julian ☺. The Center is a non profit dedicated to the return of wild wolves to their natural habitat, and to the people who share the landscape with them. California Wolf Center offers tours of the conservation center in Julian (with a reservation). www.californiawolfcenter.org or call 760-765-0030.

Jessica is an associate professor at California State University at San Marcos. She'll guide us through a short history of wolves in the US, why we should care about them, and wolf communication, personalities and collaborative roles they play within the pack. California Wolf Center is working hard to provide real and practical solutions to all of us sharing the landscape with wild wolves. We can all work together to preserve the wolves and return them to the wild. With the guidance from the California Wolf Center, we'll learn how we can help in this important effort.
